

ANADARKO DAILY DEMOCRAT

VOLUME XIII

ANADARKO, OKLAHOMA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 9 1914

NO. 74

FACTS ABOUT THE COURT HOUSE ROW

Since the report in yesterday's Democrat relative to the trouble at the Court House, we have been advised that we were in error in stating that Rev. Phares had made complaint before the Board of Commissioners relative to the conduct of the County Poor Farm. Rev. Phares, it seems, did not appear before the Board and went to some one of the Commissioners and told him of the rumors he had heard, relative to the conditions not being right.

The inference in yesterday's article that Rev. Phares started the conversation that led up to the trouble, we are advised is incorrect and that he was only replying to some statement which Mr. Morgan had made and that he was not the first one to pass the "lie."

It was not our intention in writing up this matter to take sides either way and we simply gave the facts as reported to us.

Mrs. Chester Blankenship left Friday for her home in Minoo, after a visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith.

Walt Ellison, deputy sheriff, went to Hinton, Friday, on business.

H. E. Winzenried went to Oklahoma City, Friday. Mr. Winzenried on business and Mrs. Winzenried to hear Schumann-Heink.

The Town Marshal

In presenting this comedy drama of the rural Northwest, the Dramatic Club of the Cedar Springs Literary Society is accomplishing an achievement which is very creditable to any community. The plot is remarkably strong, and is particularly notable for the absence of objectionable features so usually found in light theatricals. To miss seeing "Uncle Jeb Jenkins" in the chief comedy role will be the regret of all who are so unfortunate. All in all the play is cleverly written and very evenly balanced. Each character is as essential to the play as the title. Desmond, the leading man, in his vivid character portrayal of "The Town Marshal," will awaken every one to an appreciation of a man of true worth.

"The Dramatic Club" will produce this play at Anadarko Opera House Friday January 9th. Prices 15, 25 and 35c.
